

While Broadband over Power Line seems a wonderful adjunct to the other broadband services available, the downside is so powerful as to totally negate any advantages. As has been found in several countries worldwide, the interference to existing services is intolerable. Licensed services of all kinds, amateur and commercial as well as some public safety are all negatively impacted by BPL.

The gain to some by adding competition fades to insignificance in the light of the losses to many. BPL should not be implemented in the United States.

Thank you.

Howard Feldmesser